In this lesson we'll research topics in preparation for four minute presentations on aspects of total war. We'll discuss related issues and write two letters—one from a civilian point of view and the other from a military perspective—on the bombing of Dresden. To conclude, we'll discuss the meaning of total war and the difficulty an historian faces in humanizing history and then write your own thesis on total war as it was applied in World War II.

	"Even though large tracts of Europe and many old and famous States have fallen or may fall into the grip of the Gestapo and all the odious apparatus of Nazi rule, we shall not flag or fail. We shall go on to the end. We shall fight in France, we shall fight on the seas and oceans, we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air, we shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be."
